PROCLAMATION

As we enter the new millennium, it is important to review our past as we look to the future.

County governments began as a response to the needs of the early settlers of our country, tracing their roots to the Anglo-Saxon local government 1,000 years ago. Counties first appeared in colonial America, making them older than the Republic itself.

As our country grew westward, so, too did the number of counties. The primary functions of county government during the 1800s and early 1900s involved judicial, road, law enforcement and other responsibilities in which the county acted mainly as an arm of the state.

Over the last century, the responsibilities of county governments have grown enormously. County governments employ more than two million people and spend billions of dollars providing services to the people of the United States.

Counties, today, are an important link within the nation's governmental structure with duties ranging from public safety to preserving the environment. They run housing and community development programs. They maintain parks, airports and transit systems. They work to solve area-wide problems, such as air pollution, solid waste disposal and drug trafficking. And, when the sick, the aged or the poor have nowhere else to go, it is the county that cares for them.

Counties realize that volunteers play a vital role in providing services to citizens and saving tax dollars and appreciate the work that volunteers do. Volunteerism in Carbon County promotes cost effective government, professional skills and education and strong democracy and citizen participation. It increased knowledge of elected officials and additional resources and improves perception of government operations. We greatly appreciate the efforts of our volunteers.

Carbon County is committed to providing solutions to meet many of the most challenging needs and ensuring a high quality of life for all its citizens.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:

CARBON COUNTY, WYOMING hereby proclaims April 9-15, 2000 NATIONAL COUNTY GOVERNMENT WEEK dated this the 4th day of April, 2000

-s- Artlin Zeiger
Chairman

-s- Linda Fleming
Commissioner

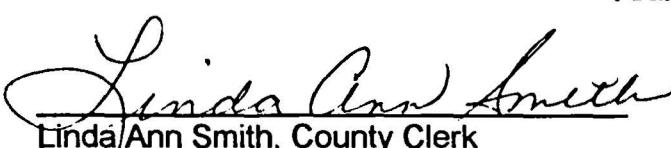

-s- Lee Meacham
